

Mashou

Replace -masu with -mashou and you get 'let's', or in a question 'shall we?':

Ikimashou. 'Let's go.'

Orimashou. 'Let's get off'

Watarimashou. 'Let's cross over.'

Kekkon shimashou. 'Let's get married!'

Saa, hajimemashou. 'Let's start then.'

Issho ni kaerimashou. 'Let's go back together.'

Gofunkan, kyuukei o torimashou. 'Let's have a five-minute break.'

Chotto yasumimashou. 'Let's rest a little'

10 Juuji ni aimashou. 'Let's meet at ten.'

Nani o tabemashou ka. 'What shall we eat?'

Ato de toshokan ni ikimashou ka. 'Shall we go to the library later?'

Nimotsu o mochimashou ka. 'May I carry your luggage?'

Vocab

oriru 'to get off'

wataru 'to cross'

kekkon suru 'to get married'

issho ni 'together (adv.)'

~ funkan '(for a period of ~) minutes'

kyuukei 'a rest, a break'

toru 'take'

yasumu 'to rest'

ato de 'later'

toshokan 'library'

nimotsu 'luggage'

motsu 'have, hold, carry'

Notes

chotto is often used in polite commands or let's sentences, as here. It often has an apologetic feeling.